

Your past lovers were sprinters: fast, finished, and gone,
But I run marathons—I keep on moving.

I am in this for the long, steady run.

Through every storm and rising sun.

I hope I cross your mind mile after mile,
Feeling love's burn that makes it worthwhile.